Recycling

With extensive knowledge about the recycling industry, IROW can work directly with decision makers in your organization to identify items that can be recycled instead of sent to the landfill.

IROW understands waste streams and can help you identify both the economic opportunities and the economic disadvantages of recycling. We have empowered our customers to save thousands of dollars by implementing our recommended recycling programs. By conducting a thorough analysis of the waste stream, from an economic vantage point, IROW provides a view point found nowhere else in the industry.

"IROW has been our company-wide recycler since 1996, and exceeds in two ways: first, they provide "on request" waste audits of materials going to landfill, and second, they provide a monthly report with detailed accounting of all recyclables received from our operations. Most importantly, IROW has saved us money and that money goes directly to the bottom line."

Richard Harding, Corporate Environmental Manager, Weather Shield & the Peachtree Companies

"IROW is the most flexible and cost efficient company to work with for all of the different products we handle. They can handle increased volume on a turn of a dime without sacrificing their high quality customer service. There are times we have 40 truckloads to recycle in a short amount of time, and IROW will handle the volume we have without issue."

Banta Corporation*

"IROW not only provides excellent service and leadership with our recycling efforts, but we also know they support many local organizations. We like working with a recycling company that is locally owned and that shares our interest in giving back to the communities we call home."
John Ivaska, Wausau Tile

"If it doesn't make economic sense, it does not make recycling sense."
